NEW RESELLERS

Nexus Management plc (LSE: NXS), the provider of specialist IT Managed Services, today announces that Sapphire Technical Services and Atris Group have signed as agents to resell Nexus products to their existing and new customers. Headquartered in New England, USA, the companies have a significant customer base of small to medium sized businesses to whom they provide support.

In particular, the resellers will be focused on selling Nexus's recently launched digital voice recording product, NexVR, which is already generating significant interest amongst their customers.

Roger Richardson CEO, commented, "I am delighted that both Sapphire and Atris have chosen to offer Nexus's range of products to their clients. Both companies are staffed by highly experienced IT professionals and their enthusiasm for our products is a great endorsement of our technical capabilities and our product positioning. For a company the size of Nexus, having an indirect sales force is an important driver of growth, and in this case will immediately double our sales capacity in the US. I am especially pleased that the new NexVR product is also proving very popular with the reseller community as we look to build our multi channel sales model."
